Public-Private Collaboration Revitalizes the Kin-Ma Hotel with a New Look

The Kin-Ma Hotel in Kaohsiung, once a transit and rest station for soldiers traveling to and from outlying islands such as Kinmen and Penghu, was transferred to the National Property Administration (NPA) in 2016. As the only remaining building in Taiwan with historical ties to military life on outlying islands, it holds significant cultural value. To repurpose this national property, the NPA's Southern Regional Branch signed a Commissioned Improvement Utilization contract with Kaohsiung City Government's Urban Development Bureau on October 13, 2016. After a public tender process, the project was awarded to ALIEN ART Co., Ltd., which undertook two years of renovations and artistic space planning. Reopened as a contemporary art museum at the end of 2018, it has since evolved into a center for contemporary art collections, offering the public a vibrant venue to enjoy modern art.
